Your Mission, Should You Decide to Accept It...

Dear Pastor,

Years ago—well, now it would be decades ago—one of my (Dave writing here) favorite tv shows was "Mission Impossible." If you are old enough to have watched it back then, you might remember the basic plot. The leader of a clandestine black ops group would receive a tape recording detailing a mission, that, at least theoretically, they could decline (they never did of course). Near the end of the recording, that self-destructed when it finished playing, was a statement like this: "Your mission, should you decide to accept it..."

Dan and I have chosen to accept a mission to the men and women who serve in our state government. But this mission is one of dependence. We cannot do it on our own and in our own strength. So we are praying that God will work in hearts and lives as we share the truth of His Word. We pray for open doors of ministry. And we pray that pastors will have a burden to be a blessing to their elected officials, both at the Capitol and in their own communities. We pray that God will be pleased to water the gospel seed that is sown, that it might produce fruit.

Re-elected and newly elected officials will be sworn into office next Tuesday, January 3, 2023. Maybe the Lord would have you kick off a new year of ministry by joining us in the Capitol in January to share Scripture with and pray with and for elected officials. At a minimum, would you renew your commitment to pray for the men and women who make decisions that impact our lives and ministries on a daily basis? We are commanded to do so in I Tim. 2:1-4. And please pray for the outreach work being done at the Capitol.

This outreach could be part of your mission in 2023, should you decide to accept it. We welcome you to join us. To sign up for a date to come to the Capitol with us, click HERE. We look forward to the privilege of ministering with you in this harvest field. For His Glory,

PS: January is not the only month that we will be ministering at the Capitol. We will be adding other dates and times. However, we encourage you to get signed up asap in January, if that is a good month for you.
